

Sitemap

After deciding which main section should be within the app, I created a sitemap to help define the general structure of the app's content along with the relationships between the different screens and features. The goal is to make a logical and easy-to-navigate path for users, avoiding being overwhelmed when users are performing other tasks while listening to a podcast.

